

A FIRST DAY

INTRODUCING YOURSELF

Sit in pairs and ask five questions about themselves to each one of your mates. Then chose one mate and try to gather as much information as possible about him from your mates. Finally, write down a profile of one of your mates.

STABLISHING RULES

Divide yourself into two groups. The firs group should discuss and write ten rules you think suitable for the students. The second one, the rules for the teacher.

Then, put in common your ideas and write a final draft.

COMMON THINGS

Sit in pairs and ask your mate five things you have in common and three you don't. Then change your mate and go on with your list.

TELL THE TRUTH

Deal the cards on the next page. Each of the students will convince the class that he or she spent their imaginary holiday as the card says, making it as fanciful as possible.

Those students with the word TRUTH in their card must say their real destination and convince the class that they are not lying.
